

Paul K. Longmore Institute

AAPD Fall Intern Position Description

Overview

The Longmore Institute is excited to partner with the AAPD to host a Fall 2023 intern!

Apply for an opportunity to support our mission to study and showcase disabled people's experiences to revolutionize social views. Through public education, scholarship and cultural events, the Longmore Institute shares disability history and theory, promotes critical thinking, and builds a broader community. The intern will participate in developing access support, program planning, graphics development, and social media promotion that make Longmore Institute events and programs possible. The position will overlap with Superfest Disability Film Festival's 35th year in operation, a hybrid festival with international attendance the promotes "Disability 201" conversations.

Qualities of an Ideal Candidate

- strong organizational and communication skills
- experience thinking about access for people with disabilities
- comfortable using Zoom, Google sheets, drive, Excel, Microsoft Office, MailChimp, Twitter, Instagram, and/or Facebook
- experience with basic graphic design to generate event flyers and publicity images (Adobe, Canva, or other software programs)
- non-profit experience and familiarity with the disability community are major pluses
- a passion for connecting with diverse disability community and a desire to build new connections
